Title: Beyond The Pages

My Contribution:
This week I worked on the sign In and sign-up pages for our website and did the total design and styling for those pages and I worked on the backend and linking the data to the database and then I worked on the guest login page. I totally worked on styling and all the css components on the website to make it look attractive and re- considered all the components from the beginning and checked if everything is good and running according to what we planned for our website to look like. I used all my last week's research to make our website look good and have better features in compared to other similar websites. This week we worked on our website drawbacks which did not feel right in place and tried making it look the best version of its own. I tried making the sign in, sign up and guest login page look more attractive by adding background colors and different elements. I mainly worked on styling designing the website to make it look good.
